

Welcome to Monastery Nieuwkerk Goirle

Monastery Nieuwkerk is a Dutch monastery located on the Nieuwkerk estate, a nature reserve on the Dutch-Belgian border between Goirle (NL) and Poppel (BE).

In 1639, during the Eighty Years' War, a barn church was built in this area. At that time, however, the area was still called Steenvoirt and only got the name Nieuwkerk when the Tilburgers built their own barn church in 1652.

In 1799, the barn church lost its function, with the result that it, already dilapidated, was demolished in 1810. A little later, the chapel Sint-Jans-Gool was built on the same spot, which still has a wrought iron door handle from the former barn church today. In 1859 'De Meester de Betzenbroek' bought the estate. He had a monastery built, which was consecrated on June 1, 1913. Priests in training were taught there.

In 1960 the monastery came into the hands of the Trappists, known from the Koningshoeve in Tilburg. Then in 1965, Franciscan nuns came in from Etten-Leur, who turned it into a retirement home for the mission of returning sisters.

Later, Priest Sint Pius X temporarily settled in the monastery Priest. He became leader of the Maastricht Congregation De Kommel. The landowner Baron Eric de Jambinne de Meux bought it from the Franciscan Sisters in 1986. The Baron still owns the monastery, the chapel and its underground. Mass has been held in the chapel every Sunday morning since 1913.

In 1997 the religious destination came to an end. In 2006, a center for reflection was added. It wasn't until 2012 when a 'Goirlese' couple turned it into a conference resort hotel.

The current owner Jochem de Jong built it convent further into a hospitable location for lunch, drinks, dinner, wedding, meeting, overnight stay, etc. You are welcome for various occasions where one thing is central: Joy!
